Economy & Market Outlook

Due to the political unrest over the past few months of 2011, yields in the market have made another jump for the year, especially treasury bills which hiked nearly 75 basis points. This was reflected on money markets, which have also seen volatility during the fourth quarter of the year. The most active treasury bills in the market during the quarter were the 1-year bills trading at a net of tax rate of 12.12%. It is expected that current yields offered in treasury bills will cool down with political stability and economic stimulation which are expected to materialize on the near term with the start of the first parliamentary session and anticipated finalization of the IMF USD3.2bn loan. By the end of the quarter the total amount of treasury bills outstanding amounted to EGP329 billion after the government managed to issue an excess of EGP14 billion worth of treasury bills in the market during the quarter.

On the economic front, Egypt recorded an economic growth of 0.2% in the first quarter of the FY2011/2012 vs. 0.4% in the previous quarter. Vital economic sectors were hit during the quarter including tourism, manufacturing and construction while revenues from Suez Canal and Telecommunication sector remained stable.

Annual Headline inflation accelerated to 9.1% in November 2011 on higher food prices while core inflation dropped to 7.0% year-on-year in November 2011. On a separate note, net international reserves reached USD20.1 billion in November 2011 on the back of weakened current account and increasing dollarization pressures.

Investment Strategy

The investment manager will focus on switching from lower to higher yield instruments within the fund's portfolio while keeping duration within limits. The fund will maintain its strong liquidity position which will help in capturing higher yields in the market in addition to meeting volatile redemption.
